It's a terror gang's phone number. The number is being used by a bikie gang to make threats and intimidate women and children living on the same block. Mangere Magistrate Judge Nic Whan was told on Thursday that a man who appeared in court in relation to a fatal shooting had been connected to the Talaash Mangere, a gang associated with the Toa Te Rangatira and Nomads outlaw motorcycle gangs. Mohiul Islam Babar, 30, appeared in the same courtroom as former Nomads boss and Mangere Prison rioter Billy Ngata Wharehirangi. Babar was charged over the December 12 shooting at Weeramai, where Ngata's accomplice, Tau Varaipaere murdered a man. Wharehirangi was charged with perverting the course of justice for allegedly covering for Babar after the shooting, but he will not appear in court until next year. Family of victims were told of the connection between the gangs after a threatening phone call was traced to Babar's number. The number was linked to Babar in court yesterday. Babar had earlier pleaded not guilty to being an accessory to murder and to having an unregistered handgun, and he entered a not guilty plea. He stood at the rear of the court, clasping his head in his hands, as the charges were read out. It was alleged that he called Talaash Mangere's Mati f678ea9f9e
